

November 23, 2009

Greetings from 1st grade!!

Below is information about what will be happening this week and important reminders. If there are any questions or concerns please let me know.

Reminders / Upcoming Events

UNIT READING & SPELLING TEST

- The students will take their Unit 2 Reading test on Monday, November 23 and Tuesday, November 24. They will take their Unit Spelling test on Tuesday, November 24.

LIBRARY

- We will have library Tuesday, November 24, so the students may have new books over vacation. Please make sure your child has their library book with them on Tuesday.

WINTER MUSICAL

- Monday, December 7, the students will have their Winter Musical at 7:00. Students need to be in the classroom no later than 6:45 so they can line up in the correct order. Also the students need to be dressed in all black (or all of another color if they do not have all black). The students will be dressed as penguins for the musical!

READING

- On Monday and Tuesday the students will take their Unit 2 Reading test. At home review the vocabulary words on the back of the red homework folder. Begin with no, out, ride, small and continue to about, again, around, use. Also, review all short vowel sounds and beginning and ending blends (th, sh, fl, sn, ss, ff, ll).

SPELLING

- This week the students will be taking their Unit 2 spelling test on Tuesday, November 24. The spelling test will have numerous sentences the students will read. In each sentence there will be spelling words underlined. The students need to figure out what word is spelled incorrectly or if they are all spelled correctly. For example: Max was a tan catt.

I hope everyone will be able to enjoy this wonderful holiday with their family. Remember to take time to think about all the things we are thankful for and remember our loved ones who are unable to be with us on this special day.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kreinbrink
